Coaching

Coaching is the key way to accelerate your success.

We offer two types of coaching sessions:

- Coaching sessions that complement e-Learning, included in the training price
- Ad-hoc coaching sessions that can be organized, defined, and delivered according to your needs.

Coaching sessions that complement e-Learning are an integral part of learning. In these sessions, we clarify all open questions, showcase Appway features, and recap what we have learned in the e-Learning. With the answers, help, and advice of our expert trainers, you will be ready to take the final exam.

The public coaching sessions that complement Fundamental e-Learning are held every first Friday of the month.

The public coaching sessions that complement Developer blended training are held every last Friday of the month.

To register for a session, contact us directly at academy@appway.com

Ad-hoc coaching sessions are opportunities for continuous learning. Reach out to us to create a training plan. For these coaching sessions, we take into consideration your budget, time, and location constraints; we focus on facilitating change management; we train all actors involved in the project.

For example, combining consultancy days with coaching sessions will help you to facilitate the change management in your company.

Alternatively, when your team is involved in a particular project stream, our coaching sessions can be content-related: we can organize a dedicated and customized coaching session to prepare your team for that specific content.
